
A WELL-KNOWN WOMAN.

Weak, Run-down, Nervous.

Atlanta, Ga.—"I have taken Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, and having received so much good from them you would say that you have not exaggerated in the least in what you claim for them. I first took the Favorite Prescription for a weak and very much run-down constitution, also an excited, nervous state. Was so excited that I could not sleep well and when I would do off would easily awaken. But five bottles of the Favorite Prescription and I had a severe sore throat, inflamed to such a degree that I could hardly swallow. The Discovery is the great remedy for coughs and colds and the Favorite Prescription is the one remedy for women." Mrs. E. A. WARREN, 120 Current Street.

Every woman who has reason to believe that backache, headache, unsteady nerves, nervousness, and all the ills of a woman's life are caused by a derangement of the womanly functions, should turn to herself to speedily overcome the trouble before a general breakdown causes permanent prostration. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a non-alcoholic remedy that any woman can safely take because it is prepared from roots and herbs with pure glycerine, containing tonic properties of the most pronounced character.

POLICE BOARD WILL TRY LANFORD TUESDAY NIGHT

Detective Chief Accused of Cursing Sergeant Roberts Over the Telephone

The board of police commissioners Tuesday night will try Newport A. Lanford, chief of the city detectives, on the charge that he cursed Police Sergeant S. J. Roberts over the telephone station, called Lanford, at home, to confer on a police matter.

In connection with the report of the committee of the board that recently probed the department, the further charge was it is said, he brought against Lanford that he got drunk on a railroad train returning from a hunting trip to Dallas, Ga., some weeks ago and went to sleep in a compartment of the coach and was locked up there and found later by a negro porter after the coach had been parked in a railroad yard in Atlanta.

The probe committee will submit, it is stated, as part of the evidence it heard in its investigation, a letter from a traveling man telling of Lanford's alleged drunkenness, an affidavit from the negro porter who claims to have found him in the compartment, and in addition, the board will probably hear Gaines Holcombe, a Seaboard Air Line car inspector, who is said to have been called in by the porter when the latter found Lanford. Holcombe has been subpoenaed to appear Tuesday night.

Aside from the Lanford matter, there are other features of the probe report that will occupy the serious attention of the board. This report criticizes Chief Beavers more or less severely, and some members of the board, should the report be adopted, will contend the chief should be tried on a charge of general inefficiency.

J. P. Born, a superintending policeman who got drunk a few nights ago and created a scene at police station, will be tried by the board. He has written his resignation, but this the board may not accept.

ATTORNEY D. E. RYMAN FINED FOR CONTEMPT
Remarks Concerning Court of Appeals Decision Costs Him Just $50
For saying that the court of appeals could not have read the record in his case, for "if they had done so, it is impossible to contemplate they could have written as palpable and untruthful misstatement of facts," Attorney Dean E. Ryman, of Atlanta, was fined $50 by the court of appeals for contempt Monday afternoon.

Attorney General Warren Price prosecuted the contempt charge. Ryman's alleged statement grew out of an appeal to the court of appeals from the municipal court of Atlanta. After the court of appeals denied the appeal, Ryman filed a motion for a rehearing, alleging that the court had probably not read the record in his case and making the remark which the court adjudged in contempt.

SCHOOL BOARD TO FIX SCALE OF TEACHERS' PAY

Council Gives Authority for Another Step in Reorganizing System

The board of education recently voted to adopt the merit system of salaries for the teachers, to require them to be subject to the orders of the board for eleven months each year instead of nine months. This action, however, was subject to ratification by council.

Monday afternoon council adopted an ordinance by Alderman Albert Thomson, revealing the ordinance relative to teachers' salaries and conferring the power on the board of education to make its own regulations, which will be those recently adopted.

Interesting in connection with the school department was the petition of the Atlanta Woman's Suffrage league filed with council Monday. This petition requested council to ask a charter amendment to permit women to serve on the board of education, the board of health, the hospital board and the library board. The petition was filed.

The board of education announced Monday that plans have been accepted for the Meador Goldsmith (Howell Station) school which will be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the fall term.

TROLLEY COMPANY LOSES ITS FIGHT ON ORDINANCE

Concrete Foundation for Car Tracks Will Be Required in Future

The ordinance requiring the Georgia Railway & Power company to place a concrete foundation under its car tracks, where a permanent pavement is being laid by the city, remains on the statute books of the city of Atlanta. The ordinance, drafted by Alderman Albert Thomson, was recently adopted, but after a council vote to send the paper to the street committee for a report.

A majority of the street committee reported that the ordinance should be repealed as it takes an undue and unnecessary hardship on the trolley company. Council, however, refused to adopt the majority report, when it was submitted Monday afternoon, and the ordinance remains a law. It will mean an increased expense to the power company of many thousands of dollars a year.

Grocer, Robbed Four Times, Passes Back to City and Asks $300 for Losses

John Lowe Smith, grocer of 287 Peters street, says he is paying taxes for police protection against burglary, and if he doesn't get protection he holds the city of Atlanta officially responsible for his loss.

Monday afternoon the petition of Mr. Smith was read to council. He asked that body to pay him $300, the amount of goods stolen from his store in a fourth raid on it by burglars this year. The petition was duly referred to the claims committee.

HARD QUESTIONS ARE EASY TO ASK

Lady Propounds One About Vitalitas Which Comes From Volcanic Substance

Among the inquiries lately received regarding Vitalitas is a letter from one lady who asks:

"What is vital force? In some of the newspaper articles I have seen about Vitalitas I have noticed the statement that it puts vital force into weakened and diseased portions of the body. Please tell me what that means."

It is much easier to ask questions than to answer them. But this much may be said in reply: Vital force is the natural principle of animated life. It is the living or magnetic "fire" that pervades all living bodies. The activities and functions of the living body depend upon this vital force.

Where it is run low, is lacking by reason of disease, overwork or worry Vitalitas recharges the whole system with it. It is purely a Nature product. Science merely extracts it in condensed liquid form from the volcanic substance in which it is found. Every atom of it is health giving, and disease banishing.

Such disorders as indigestion, biliousness, rheumatism, impotency, debility, catarrh and in fact all derangements of stomach, liver, kidneys and blood are overcome by Vitalitas.

We want you to see the demonstration and sample Vitalitas today at Jacobs Pharmacy, 23 Whitehall street, or write there for information.—(Advt.)

FATHER BELIEVES HIS SON WAS KIDNAPED

Crawford Sewell, 14, of College Park, Disappeared Monday

Circumstances surrounding the disappearance of his son Monday afternoon, have led Dr. J. A. Sewell, a prominent physician of College Park, to fear that the boy was kidnapped and is now traveling through the country with a itinerant salesman of pictures.

The boy, Crawford Sewell, fourteen years old, has not been seen since late Monday afternoon, when, it is said, he was lured into a buggy by a strange man while returning with three playfellows from a swimming hole near College Park.

The stranger made his appearance in College Park Monday afternoon, where, according to citizens, he would go from house to house on the pretense of selling pictures, but with a series of questions which indicated other motives. At the Sewell home he asked Mrs. Sewell if she had a little boy, a question he also put at other houses. When she replied in the affirmative, he asked her if Dr. Sewell owned his home and what it was worth. This question, it was learned, he had also asked at other residences.

He then told Mrs. Sewell he would like to see her son, that he needed a boy to work for him. When she pointed out the general direction, in which Crawford had gone, the stranger drove that way with his buggy. Three friends of Crawford's reached the Sewell house shortly afterward and told Mrs. Sewell the man had not been seen since Crawford got into the buggy, saying: "Your mother is going to let you work for me a while." Crawford got into the buggy and that was the last seen of him, so far as known.

His mother at once began an inquiry. She telephoned the livery stable and found that the stranger had called there. The liveryman said the stranger telephoned him Monday afternoon that he wouldn't be back until Tuesday afternoon.

Crawford's parents are considerably worried over his whereabouts and will appreciate any aid the public can give in locating him. He is about fifteen feet tall, weighing between eighty and ninety pounds, slender, black-eyed, light-haired. He wore blue overalls, a blue shirt, wide-brimmed straw hat and was barefooted.

EPWORTH LEAGUES TO HOLD FIELD SPORTS

North Georgia Conference Is Holding Four-Day Session in Smyrna

Field sports, in which girls and women, as well as boys and men will participate, will feature the second day of the Tuesday of the North Georgia Conference of Epworth Leagues, now holding a four-day session at Smyrna, Ga. More than 200 members of the league of Atlanta will attend.

Following races and games, including a ball game between teams representing Hapeville and Kirkwood, a picnic dinner will be served. Monday, June 21, of Atlanta, is scheduled to deliver the principal address Tuesday evening, his subject being "Life." He will be followed by W. H. Preston, former clerk of the recorder's court.

Wednesday's program will be devoted chiefly to institutional work. Frank P. Taylor, president of the Smyrna league, delivered the address of welcome at the opening session Monday. W. W. Edwards, representing the Atlanta delegates, responded.

There are twenty-five chapters and about 1,500 members of the league in Atlanta.

MR. MOISE DE LEON'S FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Contractor Who Died Monday Will Be Buried Wednesday Morning

The funeral of Mr. Moise De Leon, who died Monday at his home, 111 East North avenue, will be held Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the residence. Rabbi David Marx will officiate and interment will be in West View.

Mr. De Leon was forty-five years old and was a well known contractor. Three years ago he suffered a sudden loss of memory and though worldwide news was instigated for him, nothing was learned of his whereabouts several months when a letter from Australia announced he was in a hospital there. Much improved in health, Mr. De Leon returned to Atlanta and resumed his contracting business. What happened to him during his disappearance remained a mystery, both to him and his friends.

IF YOU WILL EAT MEAT

You Can Expect to Suffer From Uric Acid and Other Poisons Generated by Meat Fermentation.

It is imperative that you assist the body in getting rid of the poisons which are the products of meat fermentation in the stomach and intestines. Meat eaters, often in early life, suffer from rheumatism, sciatica, gout, Bright's, tumblers and kindred diseases due to URIC ACID and similar poisons generated by meat fermentation. To eliminate these poisons and keep the body in vigorous, healthy tone, TAKE JACOBS' LIVER OIL, which acts gently, without grip or pain, but effectively upon liver and intestines, removing uric acid and giving the body opportunity to strengthen and rebuild itself. Don't bombard your liver with calomel, the heavy artillery of medicine. It is as useless as it is dangerous. The drastic remedy weakens; the gentle one builds and strengthens. You can get Jacobs' Liver Oil at all Jacobs' stores and druggists generally. (Adv.)

CANDIDATES FOR SPEAKER CLAIM VOTES TO WIN

W. H. Burwell and J. E. Sheppard
Confident of Election
Wednesday

Chief interest Tuesday in the opening of the general assembly Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock centered about the election of a speaker, the election of a speaker pro tem, and the movement on the part of some members of the house to take away from the speaker the appointment of the rules committee and make the members of this committee elective by the house.

At the headquarters of each of the candidates for speaker—Representative W. H. Burwell, of Hancock county, and Representative J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter county—confident claims concerning the outcome of Wednesday's election were made.

The Burwell headquarters claimed 160 votes for their candidate, and declared that of these votes had been unconditionally pledged to Mr. Burwell in writing. These pledges were said to be open for the inspection of any person interested.

Those in charge of Mr. Sheppard's headquarters claimed their candidate was certain to be elected, although they conceded the race would be a close one. They said a big majority of the members of the house were unopposed and that these were coming to Mr. Sheppard constantly increasing numbers.

The following statement was issued Tuesday from Mr. Sheppard's headquarters:

It is true if Mr. Sheppard had not entered the speakership race Mr. Burwell might have been elected. The entrance of Mr. Sheppard changed the complexion of affairs. Quite a few of the representatives who intended at one time to vote for Mr. Burwell will now vote for Mr. Sheppard.

Mr. Sheppard's position on letting the members elect the rules committee and thus control the house is popular. Sheppard has all alone favored this and that fact is bringing strength to him.

SPEAKER PRO TEM.
The race for speaker pro tem is between Representative Robert LeSueur, of Crawford county, and Representative C. Stewart, of Coffee county. Representative D. B. Bullard, of Campbell county, who has been frequently mentioned as a candidate for this office, announced Tuesday that while he was grateful to his friends for their promise of support he would not be in the race because his personal and business affairs would not permit him to give the necessary time and attention to the office in the event of his election. Mr. Bullard's friends are supporting Mr. LeSueur.

It is difficult to predict the outcome of the movement to revise the rules of the house by making the rules committee elective by the house. This is one of the principal planks in the platform of Representative Sheppard, one of the candidates for speaker.

Mr. Burwell's friends are vigorously opposing the movement on the ground that it is nothing more nor less than an attack on the political honesty and integrity of Mr. Burwell and grows out of the fact that some members of the rules committee appointed at the last session of the legislature were not satisfactory to the leaders of the movement.

It is pointed out by Mr. Burwell's friends that the house always has it within its power to control the reports of the rules committee as the adoption of this committee's reports requires a three-fourths vote of the house membership, and they further contend that the rules committee being in the nature of the counsel and cabinet to the speaker it would be unfair to him to elect a committee which might not work in harmony with him.

SENATOR G. OGDEN PERSONS OF FORSYTH, GA., state senator from the twenty-second district, who will be elected president of the state senate Wednesday morning without opposition. Mr. Persons is a prominent attorney of his city and section.

State Senator Ogden Persons, of Forsyth, will be elected president of the senate without opposition.

OXFORD CONFERENCE TO MEET AT MANSFIELD

MANSFIELD, Ga., June 22.—The Oxford district conference will meet at Mansfield on Thursday and Friday of this week. Bishop Denny will preside over the meetings. It is expected that many delegates will attend. Dr. Durham, of Emory university, will preach the morning sermon on Thursday, and Dr. Dubose, of Atlanta, will occupy the pulpit on Friday morning.

COUNCIL VOTES LICENSES TO 152 BEER SALOONS

Action on Renewal of Club and Pool Room Permits Is Postponed

After listening for half an hour to the protest of the Men and Religion Forward movement, the general council on Monday afternoon, by a majority of 24 to 4, voted to again license the 152 near-beer saloons in the city. Action upon the applications for renewal of permits of nineteen locker clubs was postponed for the reason that some councilmen are planning a fight on some of the clubs.

Action upon the applications for pool room permits was also deferred pending a report by the police committee on the applications of pool rooms, which are not separated from the beer saloons. During the meeting an ordinance was introduced by Councilman J. C. White to separate pool rooms and beer saloons, and council probably will pass on this measure before it takes up the applications again.

Council went into a committee of the whole to listen for half an hour to Marion M. Jackson who voiced the protest of the Men and Religion movement and of the citizens present at a mass meeting at the Grand theater last Sunday against the licensing of the clubs and saloons.

During his address Mr. Jackson said: "We wish you, the constituted authority, to take action; we are trying to avoid going into the courts with injunctions, although we could close them up immediately that way."

The following councilmen voted against licensing the near-beer saloons: J. L. McCord, J. C. White, C. W. Smith and A. T. Peacock.

WARE COUNTY MEMBERS WANT NEW LEGISLATION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WAYCROSS, Ga., June 22.—Ware county's representatives have gone to Atlanta with a batch of bills that are sure to attract more or less notice. Just what the local act giving women the right to vote in municipal elections in Waycross is not known. Representatives L. J. Cooper and Calvin W. Parker agree on local acts.

Out of the many changes proposed for the city charter it seems that Waycross is going to get more and warmer politics than ever when the changes are completed. One change proposed to the city is to increase the number of aldermen from six to twelve, with a thirtieth to act as president of the council, all aldermen excepting the thirtieth to be elected by ward elections.

Changes in the board of county commissioners are also proposed in one of the local acts.

An amendment to the charter whereby the city recorder can sentence violators of the whiskey law to twelve months in prison and fine them $1,000 instead of $100 or ninety days will be asked.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND MAKES YOU SICK

Acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver and you lose a day's work.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when 50 cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tonic, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tonic acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—(Adv.)

DORSEY GIVES HIS VIEWS ON FRANK COMMUTATION

Solicitor Who Prosecuted Case
Makes Statement on Action of Governor

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, who prosecuted Leo M. Frank, has given out the following comment on Governor Slaton's action in commuting Frank's sentence to life imprisonment.

The action of Governor Slaton nullifying the judgments of the state and federal courts and overruling the recommendation of the state board of pardons was as surprising to me as it was unprecedented.

No defendant within my recollection has had the benefit of more appeals to the judicial processes, state and federal, than Leo Frank. His guilt was conclusively established beyond a reasonable doubt to the satisfaction of an impartial jury of twelve reputable Georgians and their verdict was approved by the trial judge and affirmed by the supreme court of Georgia. Repeated efforts to have the judgment set aside have been denied by the state supreme court, the United States district court and the supreme court of the United States.

With the unbroken record of all available courts declaring Frank guilty of the heinous crime with which he was charged, the influential friends of Frank appealed to the state board of pardons elected by the people to pass applications for pardons and commutations to be considered by the chief executive of the state, and the pardon board sustained the records of the courts of justice and declined to recommend the application for a commutation.

SATISFIED BY VERDICT

"I did not appear before the pardon board because I felt confident that, with the evidence and the court records before them, there would be no interference with the course of justice. When their decision refusing to recommend commutation was transmitted to me, I felt it to be my duty to plead for the executive because I knew the force of the influences at work to upset the verdict of the courts and of the pardon board.

I knew that the senior member of Governor Slaton's law firm, Messrs. Slaton & Phillips, was the leading counsel for Frank, not only throughout his trial, but in prosecuting the original and extraordinary motion for new trial, and I knew it would be difficult for the governor to escape the subconscious effect of his environment.

The constitution of Georgia commands the impartial and complete administration of our laws, and imposes upon the governor the duty of the administration of the law, and the governor of each circuit, as well as upon the governor of the state.

"My feeling that the governor was disqualified, at least to an extent, by his environment and affiliations, from viewing the records in this case impartially, prompted me to appear before him in person to urge the enforcement of the law.

Not one of the grand jurors who found the true bill against Frank and not one of the jurors who convicted him asked in the petition for clemency that was granted over the protest of the prosecuting attorneys and over the justice recommendation of the state board of pardons.

I cannot find in the record of the Frank case, or in the governor's lengthy statement of attempted justification, one reason why the governor should have departed from his declared policy and interfere with the judgments of the courts in this case.

STATEMENT ISSUED ON SHRINERS' TRIP WEST

Forrest Adair Clears Up Confusion in Regard to Dates

In view of more or less confusion about the date of Atlanta day at the San Francisco exposition as well as the date on which the Shriner's train would leave Atlanta, Potentate Forrest Adair, of the Yaarab temple on Tuesday set forth the exact and official status of the two.

Mr. Adair has been in correspondence with the president of the Panama-Pacific exposition of San Francisco, through A. I. V. Wilson, who is a member of the Yaarab band, and on Monday this letter was received:

Dear Sir: Replying to your telegram of June 15, and in accordance therewith, we have placed upon our calendar "Atlanta Shriners' day" Monday, June 19, and have outlined program as attached.

Be advised that your band will be most welcome and admitted at any and all days during their stay at the exposition free of charge. It is possible that certain designation will be given upon their arrival as to suitable place to disburse their music.

You will note that the attached tentative program will not compel your entire people to come in at any one time, but merely to assemble at the place and hour designated to participate in the ceremonies.

I would thank you to let me know at the proper time if you desire on the bronze medal, as the same will have to be made prior to your arrival.

I hope the tentative program will meet with your hearty approval, and look forward to your visit here with great anticipation.

Trusting that the same will be most enjoyable and all who can will avail themselves of the opportunity of your visit.

Yours very truly, THEODORE HARDEE.

The program suggested is to assemble at the Courthouse of the Universe at 2:00 p.m. on Monday, July 19, where the ceremony will take place, presided over by J. C. Greenfield, one of the representatives; then music by the Yaarab band, drill by the Yaarab patrol, followed by the presentation of a commemorative bronze medal by a committee of the exposition, and response of acceptance by Potentate Forrest Adair.

In speaking of the trip, Potentate Forrest Adair said: "There seems to be quite a number of parties going from Atlanta to the Panama exposition, and in a number of the press notices the dates and character of these specials have been somewhat confused."

"There will be only one Yaarab Temple Shrine special, and that leaves Atlanta, via the Southern railway, on Monday morning."

"The railway band and imperial council representatives, members of Yaarab Temple, will be in the city about 125 people, will have a special train for the entire trip, and all Shriners and their ladies are invited to join this party."

ADVERTISING CENSORSHIP

DISCUSSED BY WILEY

Effect on Cash Drawer Topic of Address Before Ad Men's Convention

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, June 22.—The Effect of Advertising Censorship on the Cash Drawer was considered in remarks by Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, at today's session of the convention of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world. Mr. Wiley protested that he did not like the tone of the title assigned to him. "To keep advertising columns clean is not only the duty of the self-respecting newspaper publisher, it is to his advantage," he said.

"There can be no dispute as to the importance of printing a fraudulent advertisement. In addition, it is a poor way to build up business. There is no stability about that kind of advertising. Legitimate advertising helps to build up a newspaper. Fraudulent advertising helps to pull it down."

"There are many newspapers on a profitable basis which carry objectionable and fraudulent advertising. I know, however, of a number of newspapers which are now on the rocks. Which were once prosperous. I attribute their undoing to their lack of self-respect, lack of regard for their own reputations, and their heedlessness in printing unreliable news and advertisements. An honest self-respecting newspaper has the most enduring success."

"The sincerity of the newspaper which proclaims its devotion to the public welfare in its editorial columns and sells its advertising columns to quacks and frauds is open to question. There is no doubt, whatever that the newspaper which has the greatest value as an advertising medium is the one which declines fraudulent advertisements."

"The recently enacted New York state law against fraudulent advertisements is a wholesome thing and will have a highly beneficial effect. Equally desirable is the law passed by the New York legislature last year prohibiting the inclusion of advertising circulars in copies of newspapers."

"There can be little doubt that every man, newspaper publisher or not, who gives rogues the opportunity of realizing their nefarious schemes is participants in crime. He who assists in the perpetration of fraud is accessory to a criminal offense. It has been said that if there were no rogues had no means of reaching of reaching the gullible part of the public their occupation would be gone."

"Newspapers as well as individuals are judged by the company they keep, and a newspaper which keeps its columns abominably clean is the publication sought by the man who has a worthy product to sell. Such a newspaper does more than lend its circulation to an advertisement. It puts upon the goods he sells the indelible stamp of honesty. It has ready plowed the field he wants to sow."

"There are few editors who will allow a false dispatch or report in their journals. Why should a distinction be drawn with business news which affects the purses of their readers?"

"The censorship of advertising can be epitomized by a paradox. If it is loosened, the publisher will choke to death on his own greed—if it is tightened and the newspaper has the favor of the public, the cash drawer will expand with honestly earned receipts."

WESTERN RATE ADVANCE ARGUED AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Oral arguments were begun today before the interstate commerce commission in the western rate advance case, involving about 150 railroads operating west of the Mississippi river and east of Denver and New Mexico.

The roads have proposed increases in freight rates on grain, live stock, packing house products, coal, vegetables and many other commodities. In hearings representatives of the roads have stated their revenue under the proposed rates would be increased about $10,000,000 annually. Representatives of state railroad commissions have contended the increase would amount to $100,000,000.

It is expected that the arguments will continue for at least a week and that the decision probably will not be handed down until fall.

Two Indicted

The federal grand jury Tuesday indicted Hazel Bell Beverly on the charge of forging the name of Florence Moore to a money order receipt for $15, and Will Stokes on the charge of stealing a pair of shoes worth $2.65 from a postoffice on the Atlanta and West Point road.

BERLIN TAGES ZEITUNG IS

SUSPENDED BY OFFICIALS

Published an Article Saying International Law Must Be Disregarded

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, June 22.—(Via London).—The authorities today suspended indefinitely the Berlin Tages Zeitung because it published recently an article by Count Reventlow on German-American relations which declared international law must be disregarded in submarine warfare.

The suspension is regarded here as indicating the government is weary of seeing its relations with America made more strained by journalistic utterances of such as those of Count von Reventlow. The article in question followed the well known lines of that writer, who declared international laws were made before submarines were invented, and continued:

"And one can as little employ these rules in an objective common sense way as, for instance, one could bring the sticking to his office of an incompetent statesman into helpful relation to the well being of the whole people."

The government's prompt action in suspending the Tages Zeitung is but one of many indications that responsible statesmen are eagerly desirous of finding a common ground for an understanding with the United States.

The Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung today publishes the following:

"In the Deutsche Tages Zeitung almost daily for some time an impassioned campaign has been carried on in which more or less frankly, the eyes of readers were to be opened to certain dangers confronting the empire because of the feeble stand of the government in the matter of the differences with the United States over submarine warfare."

"On one side it is made to appear as if official circles, for the sake of peace with America, were considering giving up superiority in the submarine weapon. On the other side one does not shrink from the folly of the assertion that increasing the number of our enemies by the United States would be a matter of utter importance."

"In Monday's issue the Deutsche Tages Zeitung raises to scarcely credible ridicule of the liberal standpoint set forth in the German notes to America and to a personal attack on leading statesmen. The men who bear the responsibility and whose duty it is to weigh dangers and advantages against each other are not affected by public criticism. A campaign of this kind against our statesmen is calculated to render difficult for the imperial government its task, not only of preserving the effectiveness of our weapons, but also of preventing injurious reactions on the general political situation. We trust this propaganda will come to an end."

Too True

(Pearl's Journal.)
"The early bird gets the worm," So reads the proverb book; But the other side one does not shrink from the folly of the assertion that increasing the number of our enemies by the United States would be a matter of utter importance."

BILLY'S KIDNAPPER APPLIES FOR PARDON

Mrs. Boyle Says She's Been Punished Enough for Whittia Affair

(By Associated Press.)
HARRISBURG, Pa., June 22.—Among the applications for pardons listed for consideration at today's meeting here of the state board of pardons is that of Mrs. Helen Boyle, who is serving a sentence of twenty-five years in the Western penitentiary at Pittsburgh for complicity in the kidnapping of Billy Whittia from his home at Sharon, Pa., in March, 1909. Her husband, James Boyle, is serving a life sentence for his part in the kidnapping.

Mrs. Boyle in her application states that she has been sufficiently punished for the part she took in the affair and further states that she was under the influence of liquor when she made her confession. She adds that the boy was treated kindly while he was in her care.

Billy Whittia was found in a hotel in Cleveland several days after he was kidnapped and after his father had turned over $10,000 for the return of his son. Boyle and wife were arrested the day after the boy was located and $9,000 of the ransom money was found in her possession.

The first dividend payment on the common stock of the Empire Cotton Oil company was authorized by the directors at a meeting held Tuesday morning.

They passed up a payment of 3 per cent on the common stock of $1,185,000 and the payment will be made on July 1. The major portion of the stock is owned by Atlanta investors.

The Empire Cotton Oil has been paying an annual dividend of 7 per cent on its preferred stock of $1,190,000 ever since it was organized three years ago, but the dividend authorized Tuesday is the first to be paid on the common stock, showing that the company's earnings have materially increased and that the common stock is greatly enhanced in value.

WEATHER REPORTS TO BE SENT BY WIRELESS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Inland distribution of weather forecasts by wireless is the latest experiment to be undertaken by the weather bureau.

The plan contemplates the sending of the forecasts for Illinois from the wireless station at Joliet between 12:45 p. m. and 1 p. m. to other radio points within a radius of 125 miles. The messages will be transmitted at a speed slow enough to accommodate amateur wireless operators.

Possibility of the utilization of the wireless for an extension of the forecast distribution prompted the chief of the weather bureau in sanctioning the experiment.

OKLA. SUFFRAGE DECISION CREATES INTEREST IN GA.

Possibility of Effect on Other Southern States Attracts Attention

The decision of the United States supreme court in Washington Monday, June 21, in the case of the so-called grandfather clause of the Oklahoma state constitution has created in Georgia and in other southern states a new interest in the question of the right of suffrage, but preserves the right to white citizens. In this general purpose it is similar to the franchise laws of other southern states.
Chief Justice White, himself a native of Louisiana, wrote the opinion of the supreme court in which the other members of the bench concurred.
Local interest in the decision is centered in the question as to whether the Georgia disfranchisement law will be seriously impaired. Until constitutional lawyers and others familiar with the details of the Georgia law have been fully acquainted with the details and technicalities of the supreme court's decision none will hazard a statement as to its possible effect on the Georgia law.
It is known in Georgia, however, as it was well understood in Washington, that the Oklahoma provision differs in many radical particulars from the disfranchisement laws in some other southern states, notably Georgia.
The Georgia disfranchisement law contains no grandfather clause, but does seek to preserve the right of suffrage to persons descended from ancestors who fought in the army or navy of the United States or the Confederate states, thus conferring suffrage in recognition of patriotic services, and not because of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Disfranchisement Law to Stand in Alabama

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 22.—Alabama's law prescribing qualifications for voters will not be affected by the decision of the United States supreme court yesterday which held the Oklahoma grandfather clause to be unconstitutional because it violated the fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution.
Had the decision been rendered in 1903,
Alabama would have been a loser, too,
but the grandfather clause in the Alabama constitution became void automatically the latter part of 1903.
Justice Thomas McCallahan and Justice William H. Thomas, of the Alabama supreme court, are agreed that the decision in the Oklahoma case can in no way affect Alabama.

FORTUNE TELLERS ARE BARRED FROM ATLANTA

Council Also Bans Sale of Fresh Meat and Unwrapped
Ice Cream on Streets

The sale of fresh meats from wagons on the streets; the sale of unwrapped ice cream or ice cream cones on the streets; the operation of museums of anatomy and the profession of fortune telling, were all barred from Atlanta by ordinances adopted by the city council Monday afternoon.
The ordinances became effective immediately. They were proposed by the tax committee, which also brought in an ordinance to prohibit the sale of fireworks. This, however, was not adopted by the council.
Council voted to defer action on the report of the tax committee recommending a revision of the entire tax ordinance and an increase in the rate of many business licenses by 25 per cent.
The tax ordinance will be considered at a special meeting of the council next Monday afternoon.

Routing Your Telephone Call

tem have mapped out the route for long distance telephone calls between New York and Kansas City.

There may be forty different routes by which a telephone call could be routed; the Bell engineers pick out the one which will give the best service to the public. Constant study is necessary to meet changing conditions due to plant extensions and improved equipment.

There are 12,000,000 long distant routes in the Bell system, which must be prepared and kept up to date and in addition a great number of toll lines of the Associated Companies, which are determined and maintained with similar care.

When you use the Long Distance telephone, your call is routed in such a way that you will get the best possible transmission. It is supervised by operators all along the line who take a personal pride in rendering perfect service.

"Curse you! Jack Dalton!" sounds like old stuff to the average vaudeville patron, but as the title of the travesty which Jack E. Gardner and company put on at the Forsyth, this week it offers melodramatic force which is refreshingly new.

"Curse you! Jack Dalton!" is a freak moving picture in which the principal actor was left out. Instead of appearing on the screen, he appears on the stage in front of the screen, going through his part just as if he was a real man instead of a real man. The result is highly entertaining to the audience and proved the hit of Monday night's performance.

Spotts and Lew Hearn are billed as the headliners this week. "Bits of Musical Comedy" is the caption of their sketch which is a patchwork of clever songs and sparkling lines and stunning stunts. Both sing well and they have chosen catchy lyrics for their repertoire.

A novelty is offered in the closing act, "The California Orange Pickers." The pickers, two girls and two men, are supposed to be the speed marvels of the age at stowing away the fruit, and they proved their title clear Monday night when the oranges slipped through their nimble fingers at the rate of fifty a minute.

Other acts on a varied bill are Josie Heathers and two partners in an attractive song and dance skit, "The Broken Mirror," presented by the Schwartz brothers, and Kremenina and Tarras brothers, novelty acrobats.

Those who visited the Strand yesterday were well pleased and entertained with the comedy drama in five parts, "My Best Girl," featuring Max Pignoni and Lois Meredith. Today will be the last opportunity to see the delightful photo play.

Pictorial color is given to the new drama, "Fighting Bob," as the scenes of an imaginary Latin-American country are mostly laid in Mexico. Bob is a college student called to the colors in defense of the party in power, against a body of revolutionists, headed by a gruff leader named Ladero. This revolutionary leader is in love with Bob's sweetheart and kidnaps her. It will be shown at the Strand Wednesday and Thursday.

KNIGHTS OF THE KEY MEETING IN ROCHESTER

(By Associated Press.)
ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 22.—Hundreds of Knights of the Key are in Rochester today for the thirty-fourth annual convention of the International Association of Railway Telegraph Superintendents, which was called to order this morning by First Vice President E. C. Keenan, New York Central, west. Mayor Hiram H. Edgerton welcomed the delegates and G. A. Collar, of the Pennsylvania lines, responded. The convention will continue four days. One of the important events will be the unveiling tomorrow of a monument to the late James D. Reid, one of the pioneers in the telegraph business and known as the "father of the telegraph." He was the originator of the signal "AT," the fraternity signal of the men of the wire.

LOCKJAW PROVES FATAL

TO JAMES O. YOTHER

Mashed Finger Results in Death to Cement Worker, 24 Years Old

James O. Yother, twenty-four years old, a cement worker, of 25 Porters street, died Tuesday morning at a private sanitarium from lockjaw, which developed from a mashed finger, an injury received several days ago while handling heavy beams.

Following the injury the young man went to Grady hospital to have it treated. The bruise developed into blood poisoning, it is said, and was followed by lockjaw.

Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. James Y. Yother, and one brother, David Yother.

The funeral will be held at the chapel of P. J. Bloomfield Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the interment will be in Antioch cemetery.

WHAT IS SUMMER MUSIC?

Operas, Orchestras and Sangerfeats rule the winter months—concert tours have full swing during the spring—but what is the musical spirit of summer? There was a day when summer spelled the end of music outside of band concerts and hotel orchestras. Today the Gramophone has changed all this. People leave for their country homes and yachts, but they take with them their desire for music. Also they take the means of music with them. There are low-priced summer machines. There are monthly lists of dance, band and popular music. Summer music is heard throughout the length and breadth of the land, on porches, boats and lawns. The latest Columbia list contains such popular "hits" as "When It's Moonlight in May," "She Lives Down in Our Alley," "Alabama Jubilee," "I Want to Be There." Four splendid double-disc dances including Fox Trot, One Step and Hightation Waltzes, will fill all requirements for porch dances. The latest Columbia list was especially prepared for summer wants.—(Adv.)

TEACHING OF RELIGION BARRED IN JAP SCHOOLS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—President Wilson expressed the opinion today that the recent order of the governor general of Korea forbidding teaching of religion in schools having a general curriculum did not affect the Americans under international law. No protest has been received from American missionaries.

The president pointed out that the order did not apply to the teaching of religion in privately managed schools, inasmuch as the Japanese forbid even the teaching of their own religion in public schools which impart general education. Japanese officials have explained there is no possible discrimination.

TODAY'S EVENING STORY

THE TEST

(Copyright, 1915, by W. W. Wines.)

THE district attorney stood with bowed head and hands clasped behind him while he waited in Miss Ellen Houston's library. He had much to think of, for in the course of his official duty he had just sent Miss Houston's fiancé to prison. She came to him finally, a fair, tall figure, her mouth drawn with suffering. The attorney greeted her with reserved eagerness and placed a chair. "Perhaps I leaned backward in the straightness of my duty," he began in quick tones. "There are those, moreover, who think I was glad to get John Marston out of my way. But, God knows, I gain nothing. I have not made things better for myself by taking him from you. I understand life well enough for that. Love defies disgrace and loyalty cannot be killed by prison."

He saw her nod in agreement, his lips dry. Impulsively he had held out his hands as if he would take her slender ones in his; then he had hastily dropped them. "I have done what I believed to be my duty," he said, "and in doing it I have wrecked your happiness. I, who would rather bring you happiness than achieve any other feat on earth. But I ask you to believe that I would have made it different, if I could, for your sake. I think maybe I could do anything for duty's sake, but I know that I would never fall in any sacrifice short of duty for your happiness. I ask you to believe that, to have faith in me. With that faith I can go on alone."

The girl lifted her eyes and looked at the intense expression in his face. The tears almost came as she put her hand in his. "I believe John Marston innocent," she said. "But even if I did not I would not desert him. You do understand, and as for you—" She rose and stood by him. "The world slanders you in the thought that you could do anything but your duty as you saw it. I do believe you. Sanford held her hand a moment longer. Then he left her.

The ensuing days for him were sometimes unbearably lonely. He was a man who usually knew just what he wanted and was used to winning it. During the trial, with the suffering it entailed upon all concerned, his feeling for Ellen Houston had been founded from intense regard to the fiercest passion. He knew that his particular social set believed he was not particularly sorry to see John Marston disgraced. But that was beneath him. He had rejoiced in the fact that Ellen Houston was still true to Marston.

It was enough for Sanford that Ellen Houston believed he had been actuated only by duty, though sometimes there came to him a gripping fear that in his determination to do his duty, he had proved the evidence too hard against the forger. At times the thought that maybe his own narrow standard of righteousness had worked injustice to Marston and misery to Ellen Houston was suffering unbearably.

And one day—a holiday—in his private office on the third story of an old municipal building he opened a letter from South America. He was half-way down the first page before he realized that it was the confession of a dying man that would eventually prove John Marston innocent of the forgeries for which he was convicted.

There were pages of circumstantial detail. Then the attorney laid the letter down upon his desk and began to pace the room. The very thought of clearing Marston and restoring happiness excited him. Marston was innocent—that, now, was very sure. He would tell Ellen Houston.

He had reached the door when there was a cry of fire. He sprang into the hallway to find billows of smoke already rolling up the stairway, and he remembered that the building was a firetrap.

Workers, taking advantage of the holiday, were on the ground floor. Few clerks were in the building, but Sanford collided with one as he reached the second floor.

A run through a corridor brought them both to a stairway, to find that through the smoke came fierce tongues of fire. "We must rush!" the clerk gasped, darting for the stairway with the attorney behind him.

But as the young fellow put his hands on the balustrade Sanford remembered something—the confession lying on his desk—Marston's only hope, the key to Ellen Houston's happiness for life!

The attorney laid a hand on the young clerk's arm and held him for a second. It seemed only fair to send an explanation to the world outside as a clue if anything happened.

"Listen!" he commanded. "A paper, Marston's acquittal in my safe!" Then he turned and darted along the black, creaking corridor and up the stairs. He had thought at first of securing the letter, but the person who had the chances of escape diminished fast. Leaping into his room, he switched up the letter, thrust it into the safe, made sure the door shut tightly, and then sprang out into the hallway. Somehow he fought his way back to the lower staircase. It was ablaze from top to bottom. Breathing hard, he set his hands on the balustrade for a lung rushing slide through the roaring flames. With his mouth tight shut to keep the destroying fire from his lungs, he took one long leap and reached the middle of the stairway just as the whole thing collapsed. Summoned by the clerk to whom Marston had given the quick, vague message, firemen matched the attorney from the furnace. His burns were serious, but the headlong fall had caused even a more serious injury to his brain. It was the hospital nurse who told him afterward how many days he had lain unconscious. From her, too, he learned that the letter in his safe had been recovered; that its contents were now public property and that Marston would be free in a short time.

Then the nurse led a tall figure into his room. Sanford glared in the fact that Ellen Houston's lips trembled as she tried to say how glad she was for his recovery. She did not stay long. Sanford himself hastened her departure. "Marston will be free shortly," he had reminded her, with hearty reassurance. "There can be no slip now." As he watched her go he knew that if things had been different he could have won her for his own. The nurse gave him a letter from Marston. He had heard of his good fortune and of Sanford's sacrifice for him. He thanked the attorney sincerely. "And don't blame yourself for bringing me here," he concluded. "You did your duty, even if it was a mistake. Miss Houston did her duty, too, in standing by me. But now I tell what she wouldn't let me tell while a cloud hung over me. We had just broken our engagement when this thing happened. That engagement was also a mistake. Now the mistakes will all be corrected."

It's tested in our own kitchens right at the mills—that's how we make sure that the finest wheat and the finest methods of milling produce the best baking flour—Valier's Dainty Flour.
It is milled slowly to retain full baking quality of the flour and sifted through silk to get fineness. Sometimes it costs a trifle more by the sack, but always it costs less in use, because it makes better baking.
Valier's So Easy Flour is Valier's Dainty Flour with self-rising ingredients mixed in accurate proportions. Requires no salt or baking powder.

HIGH COURT HAS ONLY SIX CASES TO CONSIDER

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 22.—Only six cases will be under advisement by the supreme court during the summer recess, a new record for that tribunal. Ever since Chief Justice White was elevated to his present position, he has sought to have all cases argued and presented to the court for decision disposed of before the summer recess. With this in view, he lengthened the yearly sessions by two weeks. This year the chief justice came the nearest to achieving his ambition.
Of the cases under advisement, one concerns the constitutionality of the Webb-Kenyon liquor law and another the validity of the Oregon minimum wage law.
About 500 cases, not ready for argument, however, are on the court's docket. In addition to those under advisement.

Rev. Charles R. Turner, "The Boy Preacher," preached at the old Baptist tabernacle Monday evening to an attentive congregation. He will deliver another sermon Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Would Your Husband Fight?

By Edna K. Wooley

"I subscribe to the belief of my forefathers," said the white-haired woman, "that it is every man's duty to protect his women folk from masculine insult, even to the extent of manslaughter. That sounds a pretty strong bit, but if a man hasn't got that protective instinct toward the women who look upon him as their natural defender, and the will to impress it upon those who violate this primitive law, he isn't much of a man."

"Then you believe in the 'unwritten law'?" I asked.

"Yes," she said. "The 'unwritten law' has probably prevented more crimes than it has punished. The unwritten law need not always mean a killing. It should mean, however, a drastic punishment and the creation of a wholesome fear in the heart of the offender. If we had more strong men, able and not afraid to fight for the honor of their women, we should have fewer nasty re-ettals in our courts and fewer human would-be going about with impunity."

"I have in mind a good and beautiful young married woman who a short time ago told her husband that his business partner had grossly insulted her when he had called one evening and found her alone. Did her husband hunt up the man and thrash him? No, indeed. He told his wife to keep quiet, because he couldn't afford to break financially with the fellow. That's how some modern men love their wives."

"I shall never forget something that happened in my own young married life. My husband, as you know, is one of those lovable, hot-headed Irishmen. We had been married several years, and though I was still a red-headed, fun-loving young woman, I never thought of myself as anything but a married and settled. I adored my husband, but I think I have rarely worshipped him ever since this particular happen-

"We were three young couples and were walking home late in the evening from some social affair. My husband was just ahead with one of the girls, and I was with her husband. The other couple were behind me.

"I didn't like the way my escort was talking, and suspected he had been drinking. Suddenly he did something that made me shriek out, 'You brute!' and ran to my husband.

"My man turned like a shot. 'What's the matter?' he snapped out. 'He insulted me!' I cried.

"There were no explanations. My husband sprang at the fellow and hit him by the back of the head with his tongue hung out black. It was frightful to see."

"He rushed to his policeman and told him to throw the fellow down an airway, when a big policeman came up.

"That's enough, now," said the officer, who seemed to have been with my husband. 'You've taught him a lesson he won't forget.'"

"He ought to be killed," said my husband, as he let go of the man.

"The policeman seemed to be with him, and asked me if he should arrest the fellow. 'Oh, no,' I said.

"Get my wife in a police car? I should say not," exclaimed my husband. "This is a matter to be settled privately between this dirty cur and myself."

"The officer told us he guessed we'd all go on home, and he turned back when we started off. I noticed the third man of our party was missing.

"Why, where's your husband?" I asked his wife.

"Oh, he left," she sneered. "he ran off at the start and left you standing there. Said he wasn't going to get into any trouble. To think he should do that!"

"Do you think," I asked, "that a man should always take his wife's unspoken words when she accuses another man?"

"Why not?" she indignantly hung back.

"The woman who trusts her husband trusts her will not lie, especially if she knows that he will not hesitate to act upon her statements. There are two kinds of men to whom women never believe whom they should have respect and those whom they despise."

HEALTH HINTS

EVER since man lost the instinct that the lower animals have which enables them to select the foodstuffs that best agree with them, questions of diet have given rise to innumerable arguments.

Historians and political economists have discussed the bearing of this important factor in the life of nations. The medical profession has devoted profound research work to determining what foodstuffs are best suited to the needs of men in various vocations in different climates.

The question of what to eat and how to get it has occupied a large proportion of the thought and effort of the nations of the world, and will undoubtedly continue to do so. The increase in the price of meat during the past few years has set thousands of housewives seeking information as to the relative value of meat as a foodstuff compared with other available commodities.

Albumen or nitrogen is to be found in meat, beans and other vegetables. It can be obtained from meat more easily than from vegetables. The food value of nutrition is in greater demand by the growing child or youth than the developed adult.

An allowance of two or three ounces of red meat a day, according to the amount of physical exercise, is all that an adult should eat.

It is this that the child should have from one to 1-1/2 ounces of fat and 3-1/2 to 6-1/2 ounces of mixed vegetable diet, such as greens, white, bread, oatmeal and corn.

Meat once a day is enough for those taking moderate exercise, with eggs, vegetables, bread and a little sugar and butter or other fat.

Meat makes a good substitute for those who can digest them, but require as a rule about twice the quantity in weight.

Squash, turnips, spinach and lettuce can be eaten in moderation, according to the degree with which the individual can digest them.

When an excess of meat is eaten the liver, kidneys and other organs are overworked in burning it up and getting rid of the ashes.

Old Granny Fox Tries a Sharp Trick

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1915, by T. W. Burgess.)

GRANNY wanted those three little Possums. Yes, sir, she certainly did. The more she thought about them the more she wanted them. The very fact that they were not to be so easily caught was just what made her want them all the more. She was not discouraged because she had failed when she tried to get them to follow her and see the wonderful things of the Great World. Oh, my, no! That isn't Granny's way at all. She is too old and wise to be discouraged by one failure. She kept thinking and thinking, trying to find some new plan to fool and catch Bumpy, Frumpy, and Grumpy.

She knew that now they knew that she wasn't to be trusted, and so it would be of no use at all to try to fool them by her smooth tongue and pretending to be their friend. No, that wouldn't do at all. They would just laugh at her. Very well, then, she kept out of their sight, hoping that they would forget about her. She didn't let them get so much as a glimpse of her red cloak. But if they didn't see her she saw them. From a hiding place she watched them every day so as to learn all their habits, where they went, and what they did. She knew when at last they found a big tree that suited them and decided to make this their home for a while. Then it was that she decided on a sharp trick which she had worked before on other innocent and heedless little people of the Green Forest.

Very early, before the Black Shadows had left the Green Forest and the little Possums were still in the blue sky, Granny went to a certain little open place not very far from the hollow tree where the three little Possums were living. There she stretched herself out on the ground quite as if she were dead. Her red cloak was all matted up and dirty. Her eyes were closed all but a teeny, teeny bit. She did not move a muscle. She certainly looked for all the world as if there wasn't a spark of life in her.

"Now," thought she, "if those three little Possums see me they will think me dead, and they will be so curious and so glad that I am out of the way that they will just come helping me to get up. Then I will see the joy that they no longer have to worry for fear I will catch them. They just won't be able to keep away. I never knew it to fail. All I have to do is to wait."

Very soon the Black Shadows fled away and the Jolly Little Sunbeams came. They saw old Granny Fox and gently touched her red cloak. The Merry Little Breezes came and blew the long hair of her big tail.

"We must hurry to catch the new little Possums," said one. "Not so fast! Not so fast!" cried a third. "I am not so sure that there is any news to catch. We have seen Granny like this before."

He stoutly tickled Granny's nose by blowing on it, until finally Granny just did to wrinkle it a teeny bit. She couldn't help herself. "At last I did it!" she laughed. The Merry Little Breezes as they danced.

After they had gone Granny lay there for a long, long time. Old Mr. Toad came along and looked at her. "Huh!" said he. "I wonder who she is lying for. Then he hopped over to a big stick and worked his way under it where he could see out. He didn't see anything that might happen. Old Mistah Buzzard looked down from his high up in the blue, blue sky and grinned. Peter had had that trick tried on him many times before.

"I wonder who she thinks she can fool?" thought Peter. "I wonder now if it is those silly little Possums. I believe I'll watch and see."

He waited and waited in a hollow log, and once more he was as still as a stick.

The French Housekeeper Is an Artist in Economy

IN New York there is a girl I know of who is going to be married next month, and her only preparation for it is a diamond ring and a wedding dress. The medical profession has devoted profound research work to determining what foodstuffs are best suited to the needs of men in various vocations in different climates.

The question of what to eat and how to get it has occupied a large proportion of the thought and effort of the nations of the world, and will undoubtedly continue to do so. The increase in the price of meat during the past few years has set thousands of housewives seeking information as to the relative value of meat as a foodstuff compared with other available commodities.

Albumen or nitrogen is to be found in meat, beans and other vegetables. It can be obtained from meat more easily than from vegetables. The food value of nutrition is in greater demand by the growing child or youth than the developed adult.

An allowance of two or three ounces of red meat a day, according to the amount of physical exercise, is all that an adult should eat.

It is this that the child should have from one to 1-1/2 ounces of fat and 3-1/2 to 6-1/2 ounces of mixed vegetable diet, such as greens, white, bread, oatmeal and corn.

Meat once a day is enough for those taking moderate exercise, with eggs, vegetables, bread and a little sugar and butter or other fat.

Meat makes a good substitute for those who can digest them, but require as a rule about twice the quantity in weight.

Squash, turnips, spinach and lettuce can be eaten in moderation, according to the degree with which the individual can digest them.

When an excess of meat is eaten the liver, kidneys and other organs are overworked in burning it up and getting rid of the ashes.

THE PICNIC SEASON

THE picnic season is at hand and it brings a dangerous health problem—the drinking water used by picnic parties.

Nobody thinks of going on a picnic without taking a supply of food, but few people are far sighted enough to carry their drinking water.

Some spring about twenty miles away, they feel well be sure to supply this essential.

As a result of this indiscriminate dependence upon supply there are humiliated and sickened contract typhoid fever every season.

If while on a pleasure trip a water supply is found which is unfatigable will make it safe.

The drinking water is by no means always pure water. Many a sparkling, crystal clear, roadside spring is open to pollution and no matter how attractive the little brooklet which bubbles along its banks.

For the sake of one's health it is better to carry drinking water from home to the picnic ground.

STELLA WOULD THEN BE USED TO IT!

CAPTAIN, WE WANT TO STAY ABOARD FOR THE NIGHT. WE DON'T WANT THE BOYS BACK. WE'VE GOT TO STAY ABOARD.

Oh, girls, it's too noisy aboard in this harbor at night. It would take you a very pleasant time to get used to it.

I'll tell you cap—well, go up to the hotel where it's quiet and sleep the first three nights.

Our Column Of Good Recipes

By Caroline Coe

The "cheese appetizer" is usually at its sharpest in summer. The cheese flavor seems to appeal to the palate flayed by heavy winter diet, so either a substitute for meat or as a side dish cheese should have a place on the table these days.

There's plenty of nutrition in cheese—a larger percentage of fat than there is in an expensive breakfast, and the price of cheese is never high enough to worry anyone. With vegetables and juicy fruits to offset its fatty substance it makes a very good "main dish" for dinner.

CHEESE AU GRATIN—Beat the yolks of four eggs in a lemon colored foam; add 1/2 teaspoonful of salt, and a dash of curry powder. Whip the whites to a stiff froth, and add the beaten yolks slowly. Heat one-half cup of milk warm enough to melt one tablespoonful of butter. When cool add one cupful of grated cheese and turn into the beaten egg. Add four tablespoonfuls of the bread crumbs. Butter small baking dishes, fill two-thirds full of the cheese mixture, sprinkle top with fine bread crumbs, and bake ten minutes in moderate oven.

CHEESE POND—Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan and melt over fire; add two tablespoonfuls of flour—do not brown. Add one-half cupful of boiling milk and cook two minutes. Remove from fire and stir in the yolks of three eggs well beaten; add one-half cupful of grated cheese. Have whites of eggs beaten to stiff froth; add them into the cheese mixture, and turn into the cheese mixture. Bake in very moderate oven twenty-five minutes. Plan the time for baking so the fennel will be ready to serve five minutes after family is seated at table, as it must be served immediately.

CHEESE SQUARES—Trim slices of stale bread, and cut into even shapes, lay them on flat baking dish and turn over each side of one cupful of milk and two-thirds cup of grated cheese and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Bake in hot oven until golden brown. Serve hot.

CREAM RAREBIT—Cut one pound of cheese into small pieces and put into saucepan. Add one cup of milk, one cup of cream, one tablespoonful of French mustard, one tablespoonful of salt and one-half cup of butter. Melt slowly over slow fire. Turn over toasted bread and serve at once.

CHEESE PUDDING—Put in saucepan one-fourth cup of grated cheese and one-half cup of milk. Heat to boiling, then add one-half cup of cream. Have whites of eggs beaten to stiff froth; add them into the cheese mixture and cook until mixture drops from spoon and keeps its shape. Drop onto serving plate and set in oven to brown.

Our School's Vacation

By PAUL WEST.

TUESDAY. EX BRIGHAM, Top Stebbins, Her Van Ness, Walt White, Bob Haynes, George McLaughlin & his little brother, Fatty Hollows, & Steve Hardy, a very pleasant time yesterday evening, thanks to Ed Walker, Steve's big sister Clara's boy, it being after supper.

Steve got hold of these fellows & set Ed coming up to call on Clara & it being pleasant time would go out & set in the hammock under three apple trees, & waited. Pretty soon they came out & set in the hammock, & Ed said, "You love me," & she said, "You know I do," & then we all said, "Yummy-yum, kiss her!"

They jumped up & Clara screamed "I'll tell you cap—well, go up to the hotel where it's quiet and sleep the first three nights."

A PLEASANT PARTY. Every fellow had a go home after dinner today & get cleaned up & put on shoes & stockings & go to Maude Mil-Ed's birthday party. It was not very pleasant, they being lots of girls there, & you had to set down & be-leave, only later on when the girls were playing some game out on the lawn Ed Brigham found out where you could be on the lawn sprinkler which was a great deal last year, and complaints were common as to its laundress was to blame.

This year corduroy appears to be more popular than ever. It is used in making skirts, babies' coats, small boys' suits, girls' waists and middie blouses. The following method is in the laundry:

Make warm suds with good white soap. In this soak for half an hour the goods to be washed. Squeeze out, but do not wring; then put into a tub of clean warm suds. Wash until quite clean and squeeze as before; put into a tub with one tablespoon of borax, pour on boiling water, and let stand ten minutes, moving the goods occasionally with a stick.

Add sufficient cold water to cool, squeeze out again, and put into a tub of cold rinsing water. Lift from this by the top of the garment and allow to drain. Next give the garment a vigorous shaking and hang up to dry. Shape the garment as it dries, and try to dry evenly.

Corduroy should not be ironed. It is known as cotton velvet; as a matter of fact, it is all cotton. Therefore boiling water will not harm it. If, however, the water is hard it may cause the cotton to thicken; hence, the addition of the borax. That the chief cause of failure lies in wringing the material. This will not only destroy the nap, but will ruin the garment streaky—as many women have discovered to their sorrow.

Corduroy can be so laundered that it will look like new until worn out. Another fabric that requires careful laundering is velvet. This season it is seen in many of the prettiest dresses are worked out in a cord-like thread upon a fine sheer surface. The cord-like material consists of the contrast between design and the background, but such washing may destroy this effect. Never rub soap directly on the goods, because this will thicken the threads of the background and so soften and flatten the design that it will almost disappear, in which event, of course, the beauty will be lost.

Velvet should be soaked in soap suds, washed in warm suds and rinsed in—first in lukewarm water, then in cold water. A very cool iron will serve for pressing.

Wise is the man who knows his limit. Most tall stories are more or less truth. Shiftless people are never the ones who worry about it. The chap who suspects his neighbor is not above suspicion.

It was very pleasant to here them roller & see them run when the sprinkler began sprinkling all over there while dresses, if they would have more things like that at a party they would be worth while, say we.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ANDY? Andy Anderson, every time you see him, is laying down on something & acting as if he aint terming that cultur. This afternoon he was seen laying on the couch there new woodshed which is painted red & he was very much disappointed when they said he didnt seem to be getting much redder. Andy would explain, but he was heard to say: "They aint no kammeelon can do anything I cant do, I betcher." What is it, Andy, & what is a kammeelon?

To Have Perfect Skin Throughout the Summer

These days the face needs special care and attention. Flying dust and dirt, the beating sun, are severe on any skin. Their depolishing effects are best overcome by the application of pure, unadorned cream, which keeps the skin in a healthy condition, the complexion naturally white and spotless.

MELANCHOLY WOMEN
Women should understand that melancholy, commonly called the "Blues," is in nine times out of ten a pure symptom of some organic derangement which should have attention. For nearly forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for such conditions, as proved by many testimonials which we are constantly publishing from women who have been restored to health by its use. THREE BILLS AIMED AT TOTAL PROHIBITION READY

Anti-Liquor Convention Delegates Told of Plans for Legislative Fight

Three bills aimed at absolute prohibition, already drawn up except for the final touches, will be introduced for passage in the Georgia legislature this summer, said G. W. Eichelberger, president of the Anti-Saloon league, in addressing the anti-liquor convention of delegates from all over Georgia who met in the Baptist tabernacle on Luckie street Monday morning.

These three bills will provide, in brief, that "liquor" cannot be carried by any Georgia publication.

These three bills, said Mr. Eichelberger, are all ready for the legislature which will be put on them Tuesday afternoon at the tabernacle convention by ex-commissioners on resolutions, of which Judge W. R. Hammond has been appointed chairman.

Those attending the convention were unanimous in their support of the bills, and many named legislators who, they said, would vote and fight for the measures.

Mrs. T. E. Patterson, of Griffin, president of the Georgia Women's Christian Temperance union, addressed the gathering and promised the support of that organization, which she said, was the largest of its kind in this state from center to circumference. She said the W. C. T. U. could flash ten thousand telegrams to the Georgia legislature urging the support of the three bills, and cited an instance of such telegraphic expression of W. C. T. U. opinion made before the legislature last summer.

Dr. Jacob L. White, pastor of the tabernacle, called the convention to order Tuesday afternoon at 10 o'clock after an address by Dr. R. K. Kime.

The afternoon session, beginning at 3 o'clock, is in charge of W. S. Witham, chairman, Ex-Chief Justice Sam D. Weakley, of Alabama, will be the afternoon speaker.

Hooper Alexander will preside at the night session, with Congressman E. W. Temperance, of Macon, as chairman of the Webb-Kenyon bill, as principal speaker. Judge Weakley and Mr. Webb were introduced to the convention at the morning session.

Members of the resolutions committee were appointed at the morning session. They are Judge W. R. Hammond, of Atlanta, chairman; G. R. Kilpatrick, of Hawkinsville; J. Z. Foster, of Marietta; W. S. Witham, W. D. Upshaw, Dr. R. B. Kime, all of Atlanta; Dr. J. R. Bell, of Augusta; R. H. Perrell, of Albany; James King, of Jefferson county, and H. A. Ledbetter, of Newton.

NOT FOR MEN ONLY.
Foley Cathartic Tablets are not as instantly demanded by women as by men because this particular cathartic is not so well known among women. Women suffer as much as men do from indigestion and constipation, and they also require this scientific remedy to keep the stomach sweet, the liver active and the bowels regular. Foley Cathartic Tablets are wholesome and thoroughly cleansing; do not gripe or cause nausea. Stout people say this is the one cathartic that takes away that over-full and clogged-up feeling. Sold everywhere. (Adv't.)

What to Eat In Hot Weather

MEATS, heavy and greasy foods, should be eaten very sparingly during hot weather. They heat the system and tax the digestion. Faust Spaghetti ought to be indulged in during summer not only because it does not heat and is very easy to digest, but because it is also extremely nutritious. It contains the rich gluten of Durum wheat, which is a blood enricher and muscle builder. There is practically no end to the ways that Faust Spaghetti can be prepared to make relishable eating. Four Pels May Join Indians at Close of Season

Pres. Somers of Cleveland Cubs Expects to Draw His New Material From New Orleans and Cleveland A. A. Clubs — Bagby, Hendryx, Cluby and Thomas to Go

NEW ORLEANS, June 22.—What may result in the largest number of Pelsans sent to Cleveland club since 1912, when Charles Frank shipped Doc Johnston, Timmy Hendryx and Johnny Clancy to the "Big Show," will start north immediately at the close of the Southern league campaign on Saturday and will register on C. W. Somers' Indian line-up.

According to word from Cleveland, Somers is not at all anxious to speculate in new material for his club next season. Instead, all of the players he proposes to get are to come from the New Orleans and the Cleveland American association.

Not expected to send more than two men at the most, and the pair may include Jack Knicker, who has been with the Pelsans since 1912.

The Pelsans to be recommended by Manager Dobbs for major league transfer are not known. In fact they have not even been selected, but it is evident Dobbs has a number of eligibles—Hendryx, Bagby, Cluby and Thomas. Of the four men, Bagby and Hendryx stand by far the best chance of advancing.

Although President A. J. Heinemann declares the Pelsans are not going to be weakened until the pennant is won beyond the last vestige of doubt, it is an open secret among the fans that Somers would willingly take both Hendryx and Bagby. The latter, who the pair would fit in the outfield and on the pitching staff for Leo Pohl, is nearly realized when one places all the averages of the Cleveland players.

Hendryx and Bagby, should they go, will not be strangers to the big show. Both men have been there before. Hendryx, who played under the big tent the latter part of the 1912 season, was reason why he failed to stick in because Somers thought Bagby, former Pacific Coast League pitcher, would develop into a second Joe Jackson.

Hendryx played in twenty-three games and swatted at a .343 clip, seven of his seventeen hits going for extra bases. Bagby had a trial several years ago in Cleveland, but he was not turned out for a new uniform. But Bagby is a different ball player. Proof of this can be seen from the move made by Somers last spring, when he placed him in the outfield. Notwithstanding the fact he is said to have given the Pelsans a good reason to dispose of his contract to any one who would fork over $1,000 for it.

Whether Dobbs is going to include more than four players in his list to the Cleveland club, is a question no one can answer. The odds are going to be definitely settled before the middle of August, thus exempting the rest from the annual draft.

Crackers

BY GRANTLAND RICE

That was your glory day was spun; That you had known your final run; In short they whispered you were done.

No more, thought they, the deadly pin, That pushed the pill against the skin, And then the putt that pumped it in.

No more the jigger shot that flew, A streak of white against the blue, To flop down for a simple Two.

Once you could give the ball a cuff; Once you could bang 'em from the rough; Once you were there with all the Stuffs.

And so they mourned your vanished fame, And faded glory of your game, And softly murmured, "What a shame!"

But through it all they overlooked, The fact that while you sipped or hooked, Your Goosie was Scorch'd—but never Cooked.

Aye, they forgot that at the call Of later fame amid the thrall, Your Eye was always On The Ball.

And summing up your latest start, Where no one granted you a part— They overlooked The Fighting Heart.

A few years ago the Giants could win ten in a row, or even sixteen in a row, and start no undue excitement. Now a winning streak that yields them a row in a row is an achievement of note. Which is the way of all flesh and all fame.

And there was also a time not so long ago when Princeton could lead Yale and Harvard into the baseball pasture and have them beaten before the first ball was pitched. But yesterday and today are often gray apace.

DEAR SIR: In your Sportlight you give six examples of Sport's great moments. I think you left one out—namely, Hobe Baker taking the puck down the ice through a whole opponent's team. Doesn't this deserve a place.

THE WEST has two entries against one for the east in the A. L. pennant race, but with the return of Joe Wood the east has a powerful entry—the Red Sox. It has been six years since a western club won a pennant in the American league, and while both White Sox and Tigers are hustling with rare vigor, they have a harder ball club to beat out than most folks figure them to have. Carigan has the material to finish first. It is merely a matter now of molding this material into a champion drive over the rest of the route.

THE NATIONAL league race should begin to settle now within the next two weeks. After July it is generally easy to sort out the two or three clubs with striking pennant possibilities. But so far in that mad, whirlwind of a scramble one club has looked about as good, or as bad, as another. Which means they are all about the same. The race has exhibited what is technically known as gonfaloic form.

IT MATTERS not at all to me if you should call him Lajoee, or if you call him this closing boy. In simple syllable—Lajoee. And no, too, ce ne trouble pas. To hear one beckon him—Lajavah. This guy any other name. Would suit the same.

WHILE Francis Outimet's goal wasn't quite so good, or nearly so good as it generally is, in the recent Open Champion, his rare philosophy was still better. Which means he has a better head on his shoulders.

"I played badly," he said, "but I could have played worse. But that part of it didn't matter. I had a corking good time, which is what I play golf for. And I was better than four-thirds of the championship field. If losing one is going to spoil my work. For sometimes you win and sometimes you can't, but in the end you generally get what is coming to you."

"When you are at the top of your game," added Outimet, "the game plays itself. And you are not at the top of your game you are not going to win, and it is worse than four-thirds of the championship field. If losing one is going to spoil my work. For sometimes you win and sometimes you can't, but in the end you generally get what is coming to you."

SOME WRITER once called Larry Doyle with saying, "It is great to be young and a Giant." And he was right to think we had a young and a Giant, but we doubt that Pohl is rising to his hind legs and emitting any roistering cheers over the fact. When Pohl was young and a Cardinal he was able to win twenty games in a season. But, being young and a Giant, Pohl esteems it great bliss when he is able to last one and two-thirds innings without having a number of splinters hammered from his back. Mr. Pohl is still listed among those who have the Stuffs, but now that he has it, he doesn't seem to know just what he is going to do with it, in a winning way. He has come pretty close to pitching the Old Wagon off on a number of occasions, but the harder he works the harder they hit him, which is said to be a most unfortunate combination.

AFTER Colonel Ban Johnson has driven Ty Cobb out of the American league, suggest that he continue his clean-up by driving the Germans out of Poland and the Russians out of Galicia. Having accomplished this, he can then go to it and disperse the Turks away from the Dardanelles.

IF THE WHITE Sox have a signal tipping station at home, they must have ripped it up and carted it around the eastern wing of the American into almost every park.

OUR IDEA of nothing to wager real money on is the coming Yale-Harvard boat race at New London. We'd hate to think we had any regular money bet against either crew, that being the type of crew each one has.

WINNERS AND LOSERS

IT REQUIRED thirteen innings of terrific battling for the Pirates. No less than seven hurlers were used, more than any other team in the league. The Pirates were the first to score. Their opening run came in the second inning. It was a home run drive by Ed. Hughes. The locals erred but did not seem to know just what he was going to do with it, in a winning way. He has come pretty close to pitching the Old Wagon off on a number of occasions, but the harder he works the harder they hit him, which is said to be a most unfortunate combination.

THE GREAT collection of misadventure of the season was introduced by the Yankees. They practically kicked the first game away, when those box work in the first inning on one clean hit, a double by Walsh.

THE SECOND game produced almost a similar situation. The Mackmen counted ed 6 runs in the second inning without any couple of safe hits. In the first game, Mack sent in four pinch hitters, and when he rearranged his team, only two regulars, McNamara and Lapp, remained in the line-up.

HOME RUN drives beat the Chiefs in their travels against the Baltimore Terrapins. Manager Knabe tied the score with a home scoring one man ahead for the circuit scorers Duncan in the seventh.

TIM HENDRYX hit a home against the Gulls but he is credited with only a single. With three men on, he hit over the fence. The score was tied, and the first run scored, ended the game.

Travelers Split, With Volunteers

Grand stand managers drew thrice chance at Ponce de Leon Monday afternoon to exercise a bit of judgment or choice as it was put up to active managers right along, and unfortunately for all concerned except the Barons, the guests, promulgated by the crowd of fans and concurred in by Manager Smith went wrong. The Barons won, 4 to 1.

It all happened, the ninth frame, and the result of the contest puts it strongly up to the force of fans, who are prone to hammer a manager who, in his judgment on any one of the doctored and one-sided contests, both cases, missed the mark on the one guests allowed him.

THE QUESTION at issue this time was whether or not to yank Jim Allen in that final round. For eight rounds Jim had broken almost every rule beating the Barons back at every turn. Only three hits had been secured off him, while he had had just one out. This trio of bingles had been scattered over as many innings, and altogether Jim was putting up the job ordinarily referred to as air tight pitching.

THE FIRST game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE SECOND game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE THIRD game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE FOURTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE FIFTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE SIXTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE SEVENTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE EIGHTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE NINTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE TENTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE ELEVENTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE TWELFTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. McBride made two stabs at sacrifice, but failed in one. He then hit straightaway. It was a single to left, but Leo stepped Magee at second.

THE THIRTEENTH game, for a brief instant, Allen wavered, and the count three and two to Jim. Manager Smith, however, and the crowd, the next one over, and the Baron midfielder walked. The announcement that Frank Hawkins, president of the Third National bank, had tentative plans for a ten-story office-hotel building at the southeast corner of Broadway and 14th streets, which appears elsewhere in detail, was the main real estate news Tuesday.

The section of the building depends on whether its cost can be made to show

There are a number of situations improving in building from now on, but little average of small jobs keeps up well, and there are enough large ones to make a season of impressive totals for the summer months.

Business losses caused by an imperfect

accounting system

Such losses cost many businesses each year far more than would the services of a qualified Certified Public Accountant.

As evidence of this statement, few, if any, of those firms who have employed this service ever go back to previous systems.

They employ the service year after year because it continues to be profitable.
